Background

One fateful day, their patrol led them to a secluded part of the Whisperwood, a place known for its ancient trees and rare medicinal herbs. They found a poachers' camp, crudely set up but with signs of recent activity. As a ranger, Talon knew his duty was to stop them, so he moved in, using his stealth to get the drop on the group. But these poachers were not the common thugs he was used to. They were well-armed and trained, and the surprise attack quickly turned into a brutal fight.

Kaelen Crowfoot, The Arcane Hunter (Wizard)

Appearance and Demeanor: He is an elf-blooded human (due to his ancestry being half-elf), likely possessing sharp features and a look of cold intelligence. He typically wears expensive, if practical, dark green leather clothing and a long, forest-green traveler's cloak. Kaelen carries a well-made hunting bow and a quiver of arrows slung over his shoulder, but the most distinctive parts of his gear are the various small pouches and vials on his belt, holding his arcane reagents. His hands are noticeably unscarred and delicate, suggesting he relies more on arcane power
